Lubrication

In each lubrication unit, pressure drop control is managed by a pressure switch that sends a close or open signal to the electric pump. Lubrication systems are present in many applications related to the agricultural, automotive and machine tool sectors. For this reason, Elettrotec has developed a wide range of products with distinct features that meet the standards and parameters required by the market, thanks to the UNI EN ISO 9001:2015 certified production system.
